India best place for defence manufacturing: PM

AGENCIES
New Delhi

Wooing foreign players to join his push for defence manufacturing in India, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Thursday that producing defence equipment in the country is the best option for them considering the big size of its market and underscored his government's commitment to creating a robust ecosystem for all manufacturers.

Addressing a seminar on 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' in defence manufacturing, Modi said his government has ushered in a "win-win" situation for all players, from public sector to private and foreign manufacturers, and asserted that the concept of a self-reliant India is not "inward-looking".

The goal of this mission is to make India work towards larger global peace, and also to help the world economy become more resilient and stable, he said.

The defence sector having self-confidence is necessary for making a modern and self-reliant India, the prime minister said, asserting that a new mindset has emerged on his government's watch.

"India has the potential to become a dependable supplier of defence equipment to many friendly countries. This will further deepen India's strategic partnership and boost its role of being a net security provider in the Indian Ocean region," Modi said.

New air defence command by Oct

AGENCIES
New Delhi

Amid the ongoing conflict with China, the Department of Military Affairs has hastened the process of restructuring the armed forces as the new air defence command under the Indian Air Force (IAF) may come up at Prayagraj around the second week of October this year.

"The work has been hastened to prepare the structure of the command under an Air Force officer.

Efforts are being made to put everything together and announce the creation of the air defence command at Prayagraj around the Air Force Day on October 8 this year," government sources told ANI.

The air defence command is proposed to be set up alongside the Central Command Headquarters of the IAF which controls important air bases including Agra, Gwalior and Bareilly.

The aim of the command is to combine the resources of the three services under one command and activate it to protect the air space of the country.

A study in this regard was done by the IAF's Vice Chief Air Marshal HS Arora which has also suggested the structure of the proposed command comprising assets of all the three services.

The Department of Military Affairs under Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) General Bipin Rawat has been given the mandate to create joint military commands along with theatre commands.

2 more Phalcon AWACS to be procured soon

AGENCIES
New Delhi

The government is in the final stage of approving the acquisition of two Phalcon airborne warning and control systems (AWACS) for the Indian Air Force from Israel at a cost of around USD 1 billion, official sources said on Thursday.

The fresh negotiations with Israeli authorities concerned for procurement of the two Phalcon AWACS come in the midst of India's bitter border row with China in high-altitude eastern Ladakh.

The Indian Air Force (IAF) already has three Phalcon AWACS and addition of two more is expected to significantly boost the country's air defence mechanism.
